

Running the Compiler_Assembler

The BELC application is a command line application. The application can be run from a command window or shell from the installation directory for the BEL Framework.